The testimony of John Welsh, the plaintiff's witness, impeached by the defendant, was to the effect that the defendant, after March 27, 1940, knew of the existence of the plaintiff's patent in suit; that he discussed the matter with his brother, Lester Welsh; that he discussed the matter with two other men; and that during the period between March 27, 1940, and May 24, 1940, when he handed the plaintiff's Macrae patent to one of the men with whom he had discussed the matter, he had many discussions on the subject of his supposed breach of contract. This evidence was not disputed. It is not strange, therefore, that the jury should find against the defendant. The judgment of the District Court is affirmed.
